

Dear Customers

Notice of Present situations of TOYOPUC products RoHS Directive conformity

Now, we would like to announce present situations about RoHS conformity of the TOYOPUC products which we have been engaging from the past.

The products conformity situations to RoHS Directive

As measures for RoHS Directive conformity, we have investigated the RoHS conformity of using parts and also replaced printed circuit boards with lead-free printed circuit boards. And we have found that there are some parts can not conform to RoHS directive.

In 2013 May, we decided to plan that we would make products to be RoHS conformity but actually we could not realize some products RoHS conformity due to some parts could not conform to RoHS.

About these products(not RoHS available), we decided the following activities considering the past EU market product shipping conditions.

Moreover, about the products which have been RoHS conformity, we have made trial products and tested temperature, EMC noise, vibration, shock, etc., and we are confirming that there is no problem by RoHS conformity.

The following table: Products which we have decided to make RoHS conformity in May 2013, but the products could not RoHS available due to parts reason.
