

Dear Customers

Notice about TOYOPUC products RoHS supporting

Now, the EU restriction has been reinforced on the EU market about the chemical substance, which has the hazardous influence on environment.

Recently, the major revision has been done to RoHS restriction in July 2011, The TOYOPUC products, which have been outside the control subject, will be control subjects from July 2014.

We would like to announce about the present supporting situation of TOYOPUC products.

1. Revision of RoHS Directive

The main revisions of the RoHS restriction in July 2011 are the following four points.

- (1) Category addition of target products
- TOYOPUC products are the targets of restriction.
- (2) CE Marking on the product
- If the product does not conform to RoHS directive, the CE marking cannot be on the product
- (3) Although subject 6 substance was unchanged, the future additional substance candidate were shown.
- (4) The addition of an inapplicability item, and setup of the term of validity
- July 22, 2014 or later, the products, which do not conform to RoHS directive, cannot be installed or shipped on the EU market.

2. JTEKT Supporting RoHS Directive

JTEKT will support TOYOPUC products to RoHS Directive until the end of March in 2014. However, the supporting condition will be based on the production situation of each product. Please refer to the attached file for concrete supporting products.

The attached file is published also on the homepage of our company.

(<http://www.jtekt.co.jp/e/products/toyopuc/hoshu.html>)

In addition, about the supporting plan, it may change unavoidably.

Since, we will release the newest situation information on the our homepage,

We would like to ask you to refer our homepage.

3. The products will not conform to RoHS Directive

The product, which will not conform to the Directive, will not bear the CE-marking from the shipment product in April 2014. We ask the customer not to use or not to purchase the un-conforming product for the new project.

And, the Directive will apply to the spare part on the EU market from July 2014.

Products as spare parts, we will attach the CE-marking until customer order by the end of February 2014. (After, we cannot attach the CE-Marking on the products)

Please order JTEKT until the end of February 2014 and, the customer must ship and install the products until July, 2014 in the EU market.